

Graduate publishes "a new kind of environmental book"

Contributed by Jamie Whittle
Monday, 17 December 2007

CHE graduate and environmental lawyer Jamie Whittle has recently released White River, published by Sandstone Press. With its beginnings in Jamie's MSc thesis, the book explores his foot journey to the source of the River Findhorn and his canoe trip back to its estuary, interwoven with reflections of environmental, social, and spiritual significance. It includes a foreword by Alastair McIntosh and illustrations by Jo Darling. The book is now available in bookshops and on amazon.

More information can be found on the Sandstone Press website: www.sandstonepress.com/whiteriver.php.